

MY MOTHER'S VOICE.
There's music in the autumn wind,
Around the dripping eaves;
And where its pensive step to play
Among the fallen leaves.
There's music in the river's flow,
Along the pebbly shore,
Where all the winds have gone to sleep,
And hushed are swayed no more.
There's music in the cricket's song,
I hear through evening shade,
And in the low distant herds,
Returning from the glade.
There's music in the household tones
That greet the sad or gay,
And in the laugh of innocence
Rejoicing in its play.
But there is music sweeter far
In memory than this—
The music of my mother's voice,
Now in the land of bliss.
A music time may never still—
I hear it in my dreams,
When all the fondness of her face
Once more upon me beams.
I know not what the angels hear,
In mansions in the sky—
But there is not a sound on earth,
Like mother's gentle voice.
The tears are in my clouded eye,
And sadness in my brain,
As Nature whispers to my heart
She will not come again.
A mother! oh, when she departs,
Her like is never known;
The records of affection speak
Of only, only one!
And brighter will that record grow
Through all the changing years—
The oftener the lip is pressed
The cup of sorrow's tears.
GENERAL CLEBURNE.
A member of the staff of the lamented Major-General F. C. CLEBURNE, writing from Columbia, Tenn., to a friend in Mobile, Ala., gives the following account of his burial:
"I had the remains brought to this place and buried at Ashwood, six miles distant, the private graveyard of the Polk family. I met with great kindness from the people here in the performance of my sad duty. His coffin was strewn with flowers by the ladies, and the following beautiful lines written by Miss H. were read upon it:
"Fare thee well, departed chieftain!
Ere's land sends forth a wail;
And, O, my country and lauders thee—
Passed too soon through death's dark vale.
"How ye breathe softly o'er him,
Fan his brow with gentle breath;
Disturb ye not his peaceful slumber—
Clemens sleeps the sleep of death!
"Rest thee, CLEBURNE! tears of sadness
Flow from hearts thou'st nobly won;
Memory ne'er will cease to cherish
Deeds of glory thou hast done!"
ARTHEUS WARD INSURES HIS LIFE.
I know to the conclusion lately that life was so uncertain, that the only way for me to stand a fair chance with other folks, was to get my life insured, and so I called on the agent of the "Garden Angel Life Insurance Company," and answered the following questions which were put to me from the top of a pair of gold spectacles, by a sleek little man, with as fat an old belly on him as any man ever owned.
1st Q. Are you male or female? If so, state how long you have been so.
2d. Are you subject to fits, and if so do you have more than one at a time?
3d. What is your legal opinion of the constitutionality of the 10 commandments?
4th. Do you ever have any nightmarish?
5th. What is your legal opinion of the constitutionality of the 10 commandments?
6th. Do you ever have any nightmarish?
7th. Are you married or single, or are you a bachelor?
8th. Do you believe in a future state? If you do, state it.
9th. What are your private sentiments about a rush on rate in bed; can it be did successfully?
10th. Have you ever committed suicide, and if so, how did it seem to affect you?
After answering the above questions like a man is the confirmant, the sleek little old fellow with gold spectacles on, and I was insured for life, and probably would remain so for a turn or years. I thanked him and smiled one of my most pensive smiles.
267 Many of those ex-rebels of East Tennessee, who were driven from their homes by the friends of Gov. Brownlow, have gone to Louisville, Ky., and settled in business there. Indeed, the poor East Tennessee exiles are scattered all over the country. A good many came to Memphis, and some of them have already won distinction here, at the bar and in the medical profession. They make good citizens wherever they go; for, a more industrious, moral, and high-spirited people are nowhere to be found than the educated Tennesseans.—Memphis Argus.
SISTERLY AFFECTION.—At a "protracted meeting" held not a thousand miles from Balston, Pa., an ancient sister arose and relieved herself as follows: "I see young ladies here who seem to love gawags, furbelows, ribbons and lace more than their Creator. I loved them once, and adorned my hat with French artificial flowers, bright colored ribbons, and sky-blue trimmings; but I found they were dragging me down to hell, and I took them off and gave them to my sister."
268 A New Hampshire farmer has discovered that his orchard in which his sheep were pastured was free from borers and other noxious insects, and very thrifty, while an adjoining orchard in which no sheep were allowed, was neither thrifty nor exempt from these borers and insects. He thinks the presence and odor of the sheep drive off the insects.
269 A very diminutive specimen of a man lately solicited the hand of a fine buxom girl. "Oh, no," said the fair but insulting lady, "I can't think of it for a moment. The fact is, Bill, you are a little too small to go to church with."
270 Sterne, who used his wife very ill, was one day talking to Garrison in a fine sentimental manner, in praise of conjugal love and fidelity. "The husband," said Sterne, "who behaved unkindly to his wife, deserved to have his house burnt over his head." "If you think so," said Garrison, "I hope your house is insured."
271 "Artemus Ward" has at last found something more remunerative than his "figgers" for Monon lectures. A rich old uncle has lately died in London, and it is reported, has left the popular showman a fortune of some forty thousand pounds sterling.
272 Source of Rumor.—On the arrival of an emigrant ship, some years ago, when the "wag" North Carolina lay off the Battery, an Irishman, hearing the gun fired at sunset inquired of one of the sailors what that was.
"What's that? Why, that's sunset!" was the contemptuous reply.
"Sunset!" exclaimed Paddy, with distended eyes; "Sunset! Holy Moses! and does the sun go down in this country with such a clap as that?"
The following is the verdict of a negro jury: "We do undersigned, being a coroner's jury to sit on the body of de nigger Sambo, now dead and a gone afore us, hab been aitin on de said nigger afore said, and find dat de same did, on de night ob fourteenth ob November, come to dey fat fallin from de bridge ober de river in de said river, and broken his neck, where we find he was subsequently drown, and afterwards washed to de river side, whor we suppose he was free to dey."

NEW FIRM!

THE undersigned have purchased of W. J. Caster his stock of

DRUGS,
MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS,
FANCY GOODS, &c.

And will continue the same kind of business, at the same stand, (Thomas & Bro's old stand, Public Square.)

They will say for themselves, in making their bow to the public, that every exertion will be made on their part, to render the house worthy of the patronage and confidence of the public. They are prepared to furnish

COUNTRY MERCHANTS AND PHYSICIANS,
with the best articles in their line, at wholesale, and at moderate profits.

They will sell for CASH ONLY, and wish to say IMPRESSIVELY, to all who favor them with their patronage, THAT THEY DO NOT WANT IT, unless cash is paid at the time of purchase. This rule they will strictly adhere to, and no tickets or memorandums will be made. They cannot afford to pay cash for goods, and sell them on a credit.
